

This image is a vertical, high-contrast, black and white scan of a textured surface, likely a piece of fabric or a metallic object. The left side of the image shows a lighter, more detailed texture with visible fibers or grain. The right side is dominated by a large, solid black vertical band, suggesting a deep shadow or a heavily underexposed area. The overall image is characterized by extreme contrast and significant noise/artifacts, typical of a low-quality photocopy or a degraded scan.
